APRIL. O fair 'midspring, became so oft and oft, How can I praise thy loveliness enow? Thy sun that burns not and thy arecess soft That o'er the blossoms of the orchard blows The thousand things that 'neath the young leares grow,
The hopes and chances of the growing year,
Winter forgotton long, and summer near.

When summer brings the lily and the rose.
She brings us tear; her very death she brings.
Hid in her anxious heart, the force of wees;
And dull with fear, no more the mavis sines.
But thout thou dient not, but thy fresh life clings
About the fainting autumn's sweet decay,
When in the earth the hopeful seed they lay Ah! life of all the year, why yet do I.

Amid the snowy blossoms fragrant drift.

Still long for that which never draweth nigh,
Striving my pleasure from my pain to sift.

Sme weight from off my fluttering mirth to lift.

Now, when far bells are ringing. "Come again,
Come back, past years?" why will ye pass in yain?

THE WARS OF THE ROSES.

Judicial Amenities Judge Swann or Judge Andrews, Judge Swann held the Circuit Court at Jonesboro last week. On the 29th ult. he addressed the people, and the Jonesboro Union Flag, which favors Andrews' pretentions, makes the following notice of his speech:

"At the adjournment of court for dinner, his honor, Judge Swann, announced himself as a candidate for the Supreme bench, for the Eastern division of the State. He pitched into the present incumbent, Hon. George Andrews, like 'a thousand of brick,' and if we 'are any judge of small matters,' his say the least of it, were of an exceedingly personal nature. He represented him as a mere adventurer or 'bird of passage,' remaining in Tennessee simply for office, and repeatedly declared that he had reached his present position 'by a plain and palpable violation of the constitution of the State, which requires a citizenship of three years for eligibility to fill the office of Supreme Judge.' This charge against Howard had ordered him to make Mr. Andrews involves the official out a new roll, placing the name honor and integrity of Senator of no attorney thereon until he Brownlow, who, as Governor of complied with a new rule which Tennessee, appointed him to the he had prepared, which rule directplace-hunter.

"Judge Swan doled out a dish, not of Salmagundi it is true, but one we thought very pleasing to the palates of those who look upon the Northern immigrant as an in truder, for we noticed their countenaces brighten with a smile, when he spoke sneeringly and disparagingly of the 'carpet-bagger' Andrews. He remarked that Mr. Andrews was mainly indebted to elves, we have to say in this connection, we are decidedly and emphatically in favor of Judge Andrews in this contest, and we have had no understanding with him in this relation in any way whatever, except the mere announcement of his candidacy, for which we charge him the usual fee. We are not the men, whose principles and support are 'on change,' nor are we floundering in that cess pool of corruption, where Judge Swan has placed our cotemporaries in favor of Mr. Andrews, anxious to sell all the influence of our types as the market man vends his beef steak or chops of mutton."
